THE income tax will strike William Waldorf Astor to the tune of $178,000; but as he has an income of more than $8,000,000 he won't be badly hurt.

THE Fifty-second Congress was obliged to provide $175,736,816.79 and the Fifty-third Congress in the session just closed $65,723,685.92 to meet the obligations imposed upon the country by the Fifty-first Congress, which was Republican.

THE Associated Press, it seems, has started out lately in an effort to rival Joe Mulhatton. The Pittsburg Leader says the dispatch sent out this week by the association telling about the swallowing up of the village of Scotch Valley, near Hazelton, was a rank fake.

For the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1893, we imported goods to the value of $866,000,000. Of course, says The Commercial Gazette, we had to pay for them, and the money they cost is gone from the country.—Public Ledger.

If the Commercial Gazette and the Public Ledger would hunt up the statistics they would probably find that the foreigners took just about $866,000,000 worth of our own products in return for the goods we imported.

SELLING CARPETS TO FOREIGNERS.

Republicans have been howling over the Democratic tariff bill and making all sorts of dire predictions, but they want to go a little slow. Their predictions are not apt to come true and then they will be in a nice box.

They have been doing lots of talking about the ruin free wool is going to bring about,—in their minds. They lose sight of the fact, however, that some of the manufacturers of this country have been doing business on a "free wool basis" under the late McKinley bill. On this point the New York Times says:

We have recently spoken of the exports of American carpets to England and the sale of them in London, Liverpool and other English cities. It appears that the American manufacturer is competing with the English manufacturers in Australia also. A prominent firm in Melbourne, advertising a sale of carpets in June last, offered American Axminsters, concerning which it published the following:

"American Axminster carpets have already made a name for themselves. They are an ideal carpet, chaste in design, choice in color, all of the finest wool, and, best of all, low in price, undoubtedly the best value in any make ever offered in this city."

They were to be sold at $1.22 per yard, while the advertised price of the English Axminsters and Wiltons was $1.58. The exporting manufacturers of American carpets have carried on this foreign trade upon a free wool basis, receiving from the Government a rebate of 90 per cent. of the duties paid on the wool used in the carpets shipped abroad. Hereafter they will be still better equipped for the export trade, because their wool will be free of all tax. We expect to see this trade steadily increase.

DEAR OLD MAYSVILLE.

Her Sons Never Forget Her No Matter Where They Wander—An Open Letter.

TALLAPOOSA, GA., September 5th, 1894.

It has been said that no matter how far you wander over this large, round, fat old world you will always find some one from dear old Maysville, and this was so strangely verified in my own case last Sunday, September 2nd, 1894, that I thought it might interest some of the folks left behind in the city by the river side to hear how we Maysville boys met on that sacred day in the city of iron and coal, Birmingham, Alabama. I had been asked to come over there and fill the pulpit of the South Highland Presbyterian Church and when I reached there I found the absent pastor of that beautiful church was Rev. John Barbour, of Maysville, then gone to see his parents. When the time came to take up collection one who should walk down the aisle, with that manner so distinctive of nature's perfect gentlemen, but genial Will Chenoweth, of Maysville, and as the sermon made progress and at its close the thought in harmony reached upward unto heaven and memory reverted to one of long ago who used to sing as sweetly of that land in dear Maysville, and I told them of how that dear sainted soul Mike Ryan used to win us boys from the street while he sang—

"Oh come, angel band,
Come and around me stand,
Oh bear me away on your snowy wings
To my immortal home."

and how he had gone on to glory and I, one of the boys who had sat at his feet entrance, was now following on to the self same happy land, wooed by the song he sang long ago when Mr. James Barbour was Superintendent in the chapel in East Maysville.

What face do you suppose it was in the audience there last Sunday that bathed, in tears, looked up into my face? None other than that of genuine, honest-hearted, true-as-steel John Ryan from Maysville. And the way those Maysville boys—grown men now—grinned me after service and took me off home with them, to Will Chenoweth's. And John Ryan went along, and we talked of all—all the dear ones in Kentucky far away—those living—those gone to live above—ah tell you BULLETIN we had a camp meeting time there last Sunday, and we straight-faced Presbyterians had a love feast that put our Methodist friends in the shade.

Then when I went down town Monday who should I meet but sturdy, broad-shouldered Charlie Orr, and he told me his brother was there and his mother was coming, and all of them told me that Henry Chenoweth had been there with them and had won countless friends with his big-hearted whole-souled ways. I wish I could have seen him once more. Here's greeting to him and blessing wherever he is. And when I took the train for home John Ryan came all the way with me, talking always of Maysville and its beauty and the dear people who had been and are there. And BULLETIN let me tell you these Maysville boys stand high—foremost men are they, and I am glad I met them there so good and kind and cheery, and wherever I go I want to find the boys, young and old, from dear Maysville, for even when I get to heaven, as I hope to some day, I expect to find many a one to greet me there as we take our way to the Father's home.

Hero's greeting and love to dear never-to-be-forgotten old Maysville and all therein. Sincerely,

JAMES WOOD POGUE.

The Last Excursion of the Season.

The best time of the year for visiting the seashore is in September; better climate, better fishing, better bathing. The last excursion of the season over the picturesque C. and O. to Old Point Comfort and Fortress Monroe will leave Cincinnati September 12th at 7 p. m., reaching Old Point Comfort 6 p. m. next day. Round trip from Maysville $12.50, good to return within fifteen days. Special train will be composed of Pullman palace sleepers, elegant day coaches with high backed seats and the famous F. F. V. dining car. The excursion will be conducted under the auspices of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette; a guarantee that only the best people will be met with on the trip. Sleeping car reservations should be made at once. Address Counting Rooms, Commercial Gazette, Cincinnati, O., or C. B. Ryan, A. G. P. A., C. and O. Railway, Cincinnati.

J. W. PARKER, living near Owingsville, went out into his field to drive up his cattle when he was attacked by a bull. He struck the animal with a stick but that did no good. He was knocked down and in desperation grabbed the beast by the ring in its nose, but the brute tossed him about as if he had been a rag, breaking his ribs and mangling him up terribly. Men near by heard his cries and with pitchforks in hand they pierced the brute until they got Mr. Parker away. The beast afterwards made an attack on another man who shot him. The owner of the animal was attacked the next morning when he put an end to the bull with a rifle. Mr. Parker, the man first attacked, will probably die.

An Opinion of Pugh.

[Owingsville Outlook]

Samuel J. Pugh, personally, is a man of pleasant address, but he differs in no especial degree from hundreds of young men who have had the advantages of education and an assured position in society by reason of wealthy connections. That he is a very ordinary man when considered as an aspirant for Congress is only too plainly apparent. Neither by his speeches nor a personal canvass can he arouse any particular enthusiasm.

A NEGRO SHOT.

He Entered a Barn Near Lewisburg From Which Tobacco Had Been Disappearing.

Chambers Pearl, colored, was shot and dangerously wounded near Lewisburg Thursday night.

From the information at hand it seems that for some time tobacco had been disappearing from a barn on the farm of Captain James Davis, and the conclusion was that some individual in the neighborhood could tell all about it and just what had become of the missing weed.

But the point was to find the individual, and it was finally decided to place a watch at the premises.

This was done on Thursday evening. Mr. Amos Hunt secured the doors, and concealed himself in the barn.

Between eleven and twelve o'clock at night some one forced the door open and entering approached a bulk of tobacco and began helping himself.

Just about that time Mr. Hunt opened out on the intruder with a double-barrel shot-gun, wounding him badly in the face and shoulder.

The wounded man gave his name as Chambers Pearl and claimed he had gone in the barn to get a rest. He is about twenty-one years old and lives on the farm of Mr. Thomas L. Best. He was in a serious condition this morning with the chances against him. If he recovers he will lose the sight of his right eye.

Hale and Hearty at Ninety-five.

Flemingsburg Times-Democrat: "On Monday last two gay young men, Ben T. Mills, who will be ninety-five in November, and Thomas P. Sutton, who was eighty on last Wednesday, got into the buggy of the latter and drove out to spend the day with the youngest and only living daughter of Mr. Mills, Mrs. C. B. Tully, near the Mason County line. Several old friends called in, among them, John Collins, Rev. J. B. Ewan and Mrs. Ben Kirkland, a granddaughter of Mr. Mills. Uncle Ben says he ate a good dinner, sang a song and enjoyed himself very much, returning home that night."

Demand Ahead of the Supply.

The Jeans Manufacturers' Association of the Western States held its annual meeting in Louisville this week. THE UNIFORM RANK.

The Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Takes Important Action This Week.

A special from Washington City says that an important matter, which was settled by the Supreme Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, this week, was the adoption of the report of the special committee on the Uniform Rank.

The result is to practically divorce the Uniform Rank from the Supreme Lodge. The latter body will make general laws for its guidance, but will create a Supreme Council, consisting of the Major General of the Uniform Rank, his Adjutant General and the brigade commanders of the various domains.

This council will be under the Supreme Lodge only so far as that the election of the Major General by the Uniform Rank must be ratified by the Supreme Lodge, of which he shall remain an officer. Beyond that the Uniform Rank is made practically an independent organization. It will have absolute control of its own finances and may make its own laws.

SUFFERING OF FISHERMEN.
Hardships Endured by Those Along the Baltic Coast.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—A dispatch from Helsingfor, capital of Finland, tells the story of dreadful sufferings experienced a few days ago by men employed in the Baltic fisheries. The fishing fleets were all at sea when a terrific gale sprung up, forcing the boats to run for shelter. Some of them reached harbors of refuge and there rode out the storm.

Eight of them, however, lost their bearings and ran on the Noerps islands, where the tremendous seas soon pounded them to pieces. The islands are principally desolate rocks whose frowning, jagged fronts menace the destruction of anything that is caught ashore upon them. As the seas swept over the wrecked fishing boats, before the latter broke up, they carried away 15 fishermen, whose bodies, concealed by the raging waters and the spray of the sea, were never afterward seen.

Those left on the boats knew that their vessels were doomed and made what few preparations were possible to get ashore. There seemed to be only one chance in a hundred of their reaching a place of safety, but this chance they took and landed on one of the islets, most completely exhausted. For three days the storm raged with unabated fury, and the men, who were without food, were exposed to its full force.

At the end of the three days a passing vessel was sighted and in response to the fishermen's signals ran in under the lee of the isle and sent boats to take off the shipwrecked men. In the meantime two of the fishermen had succumbed to their terrible experiences, and their bodies were left on the island. The rescued men were in a pitiable condition. Several of them were unconscious when found, and it is feared that some of them will die.

THE HOWL AND THE HUM.
Business Continues to Revive and the Hopes of Republicans are Declining.

[Courier-Journal.]

Republican hopes of victory in November are based on continued depression in trade. Nothing could be worse for them than a revival. If trade continues depressed they may win; if trade revives and shows that it has permanently revived, they will lose.

It is the perversity of fate that trade refuses to go to the bow-wows in verification of their predictions. The disasters that were to flood the country as soon as the coping was knocked off the McKinley wall refuse to show up. On the contrary, there is a well defined impulse toward a general improvement in trade. Attempts to deny this, to belittle the extent of it, or to shake confidence in the permanence of it, are resorted to in vain. The evidence is too strong. It looks very much as if it would be difficult to work the old confidence game at the polls this time. The Republican press keeps up a dismal chant of pessimism, but mark how the hum of industry breaks in on the dolorous tune.

The Dry Goods Economist says that "if there has been any question touching the genuineness of the improvement in wholesale business, there can certainly be no doubt about the matter in New York this week."

"Claffin's," which is one of the best barometers in the trade, has looked as it did in ante-panic times, and all the jobbers have done an excellent business. In many of the domestic dress goods houses the rush has been of an exhilarating description. An Economist man this week asked the manager of one of the prominent accounts how things were going, and for a reply was told that they "expected next week to begin selling the tables and gas fixtures as there would be nothing else left to sell."

The lumber trade is surviving even the shock of free lumber. The Southern Lumberman says there is a decided improvement in business:

"There is certainly a tone of confidence in the market and a more hopeful feeling as to fall and winter trade. At Eastern points, like Boston, this feeling is especially manifest. The Boston market for lumber is decidedly better in some directions, with increased inquiry. The tariff act has not materially changed the situation for the present as regards free lumber, except that larger supplies are expected to be sent in from Canada in a finished state and less in the rough. There is a fair demand at Boston for all kinds of southern lumber—raft flooring taking the lead, and the demand for cypress steady. In the lake markets trade is good and movement quite active."

The iron trade also refuses to collapse on account of the tariff tinkering, but is as buoyant as a hard-headed Democrat. The Iron Age grudgingly concedes improvement:

"The wire nail factories and barb wire works are starting up again."

"On the whole, prices for Bessemer pig iron and soft steel have held up very well, but there is a feeling among the buyers, the rolling mills, that prices must come down, since the markets for finished iron and steel are down to the lowest prices reached this year, and in some cases are below that level. Raw material is certainly cheap. Reports have it that Mesaba ore has been offered below $2.25. A significant fact is that American cotton tie-makers have captured orders during the week in competition against free foreign cotton ties. Ability to make quick delivery helped them, but it does begin to look as though they will be able to hold a very big share of the business if they are fairly supported by the millers and get decent rates of freight."

This last is a crowning injury—the successful competition of a formerly pampered industry with the free product of foreign labor.

Reports are of great activity at all the pig-iron furnaces, and the Chicago letter of the Engineering and Mining Journal says that "with the pig-iron on hand, and with the accumulation of orders of the past few weeks and those bound to come in, it can be safely said that the furnaces will have all they can do for months to come to turn out enough to supply the demand."

Pork Packing.

[Cincinnati Price Current, September 6th.]

Again a reduction is shown in the marketing of hogs, the packing returns indicating a total of 190,000 handled by Western establishments during the past week, compared with 220,000 for the preceding week, and 220,000 for the corresponding period last year. From March 1st the total is 6,885,000 hogs, against 5,210,000 a year ago. Decrease for the week 30,000, an increase for the season of 1,675,000, compared with last year. The quality of the current offerings does not appear to have improved, and is generally unusually poor, for reasons which have been previously stated, incident to the special conditions of the season. It is quite likely that a change to a better average and a tendency to improvement in quality will soon be indicated.

Prices of hogs have been further advanced, the gain for the week as shown is the average at the close for Western centers being about 25 cents per 100 pounds compared with a week ago, the general average being about $5.85 to $5.90, and extreme figures reaching 50 cents per 100 pounds higher in some instances.

COMING TO CAMP.

PITTSBURG IS Already Filling Up For the Big Encampment.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 8.—The influx of G. A. R. men, with their wives and daughters to attend the national encampment, has begun. Every through train arriving here had extra sections attached to accommodate the increased travel. The people arriving come from distant points, and are in advance of their organizations.

Only one post has arrived so far. It came from Washington, D. C. The streets are rapidly filling up, and the G. A. R. blue is everywhere in evidence. The local committees are almost rushed to death with putting final touches on all the arrangements, and giving information to the visitors who are thronging to the encampment headquarters.

Spurious souvenir badges have been put in circulation, and the police are hunting for the makers and sellers.

INDIANS, BURNED TO DEATH.

Their Dead Bodies Furnish Food For Wolves and Buzzards.

POKEGAMA, Minn., Sept. 8.—A courier brings the report that the bodies of 23 Chippewa Indians, bucks, squaws and papoose, lie upon the baked sands between here and Opstead, a small settlement on the eastern shores of Lac Mille Lacs.

They are scattered over 10 miles of country and will, in all probability, prove food for wolves and buzzards, as the country where they died is too far from civilization for burial ceremonies. The Indians left their reservation two months ago and built a hunting lodge along one of the forks of Shadridge creek. Chief Waucoua was the "big chief" of the party, and he perished with his followers. Twenty-three bodies were counted in a distance of few miles.

Three Children Burned to Death.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 8.—In Perry county, last night, John Spain, a farmer, went to prayer meeting with his wife, leaving their three small children locked up at home. When they returned the house was in ashes and in the debris was found the charred bones of the children.
